Many shining faces rise early on a September morning. Once again the vacations have ended and work must begin. Some are thrilled; others just dread that first day; yet all are looking forward to seeing their dear old friends back at Dan River.

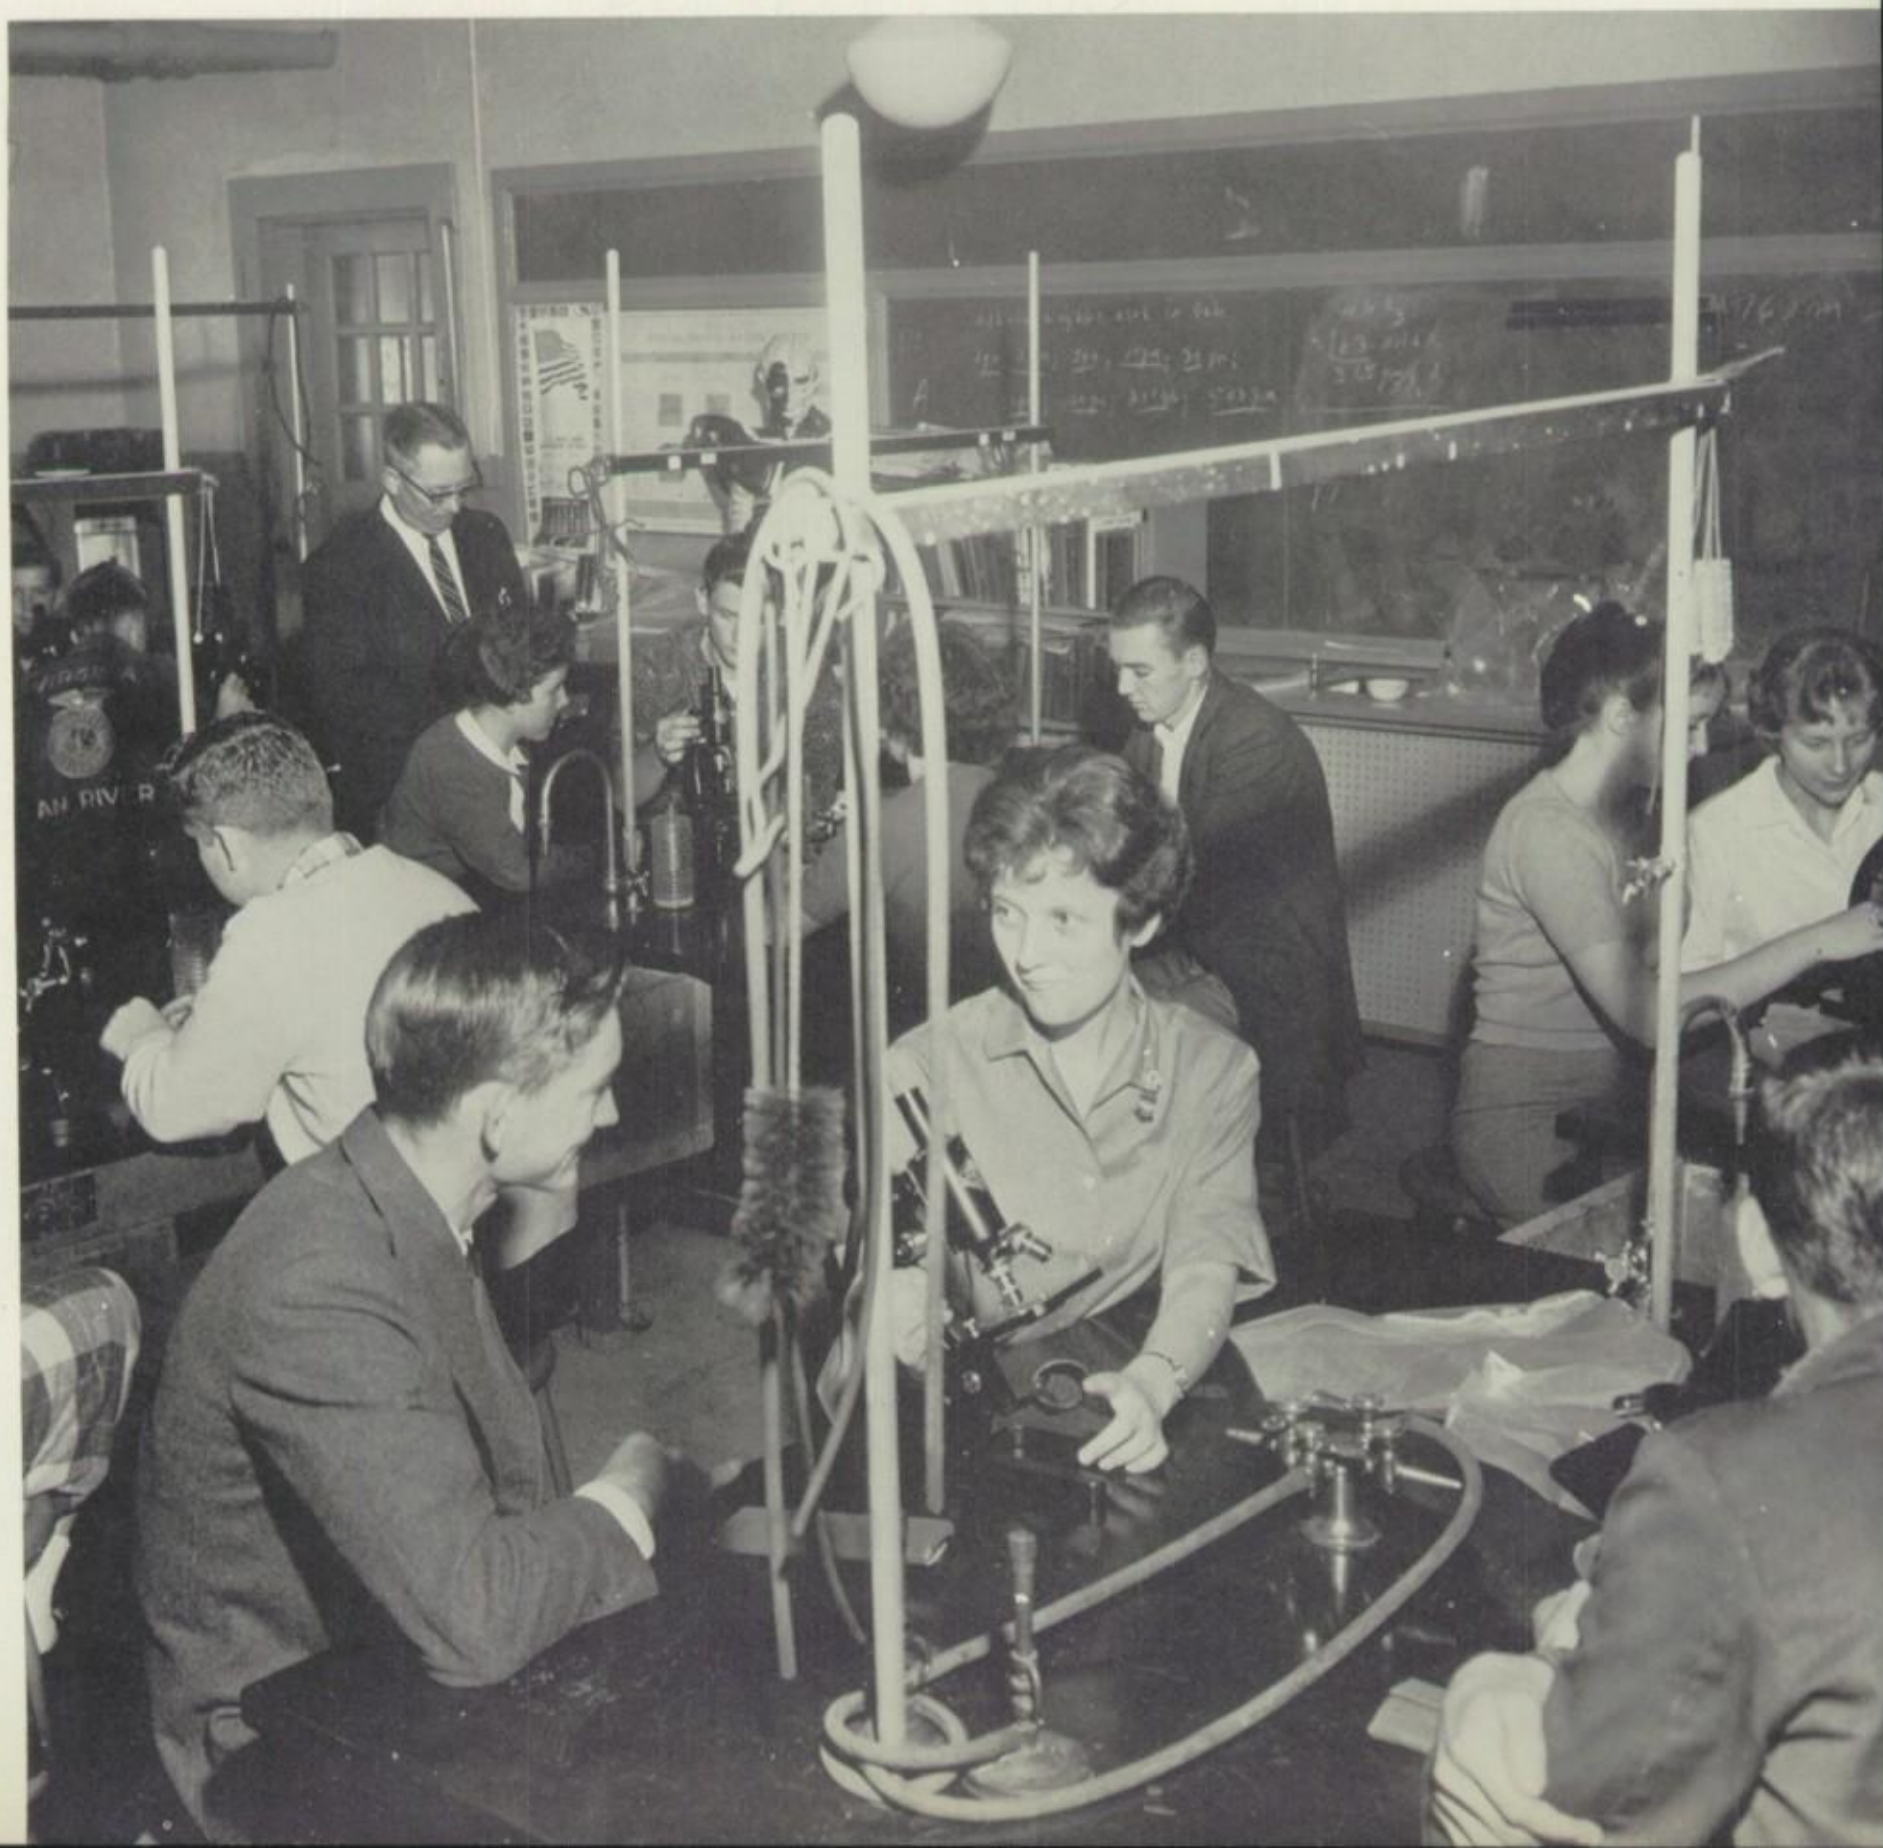

There are many radiant faces excited about deciding upon colleges or different careers. Others must get on the beam for all of those special features. Oh! Let's not forget the sports. It's always fun and competition at our Alma Mater. To many everything will be new and different - clubs to join or plays to give. Even after all of this the light through the arch grows brighter as the days go by.

We, the staff of the 1961 Archway, seek to give to you in the following pages a review of this year and its highlights.

Light of success...

On Work

The science students are making progress with their new equipment in preparation for meeting the demands of the future.

The enthusiasm of the students tends to encourage good sportsmanship and participation in extra-curricular activities.

On School Spirit

On Competition

The Wildcats compete again with hopes of bringing home trophies at the end of the season.

An inspirational service over the public address system at the beginning of the day creates a pleasant atmosphere.

On Devotionals

On Tradition

A school tradition, long and enduring, has been the receiving of the class rings in the Junior year. Here six seniors of the class of '61 proudly display their rings.

Friendship claims a major part in the various phases of our school years. We're proud to say that this is no exception here among the students at Dan River.

On Friendship

We Pay Tribute to...

Mr. George G. Beasley

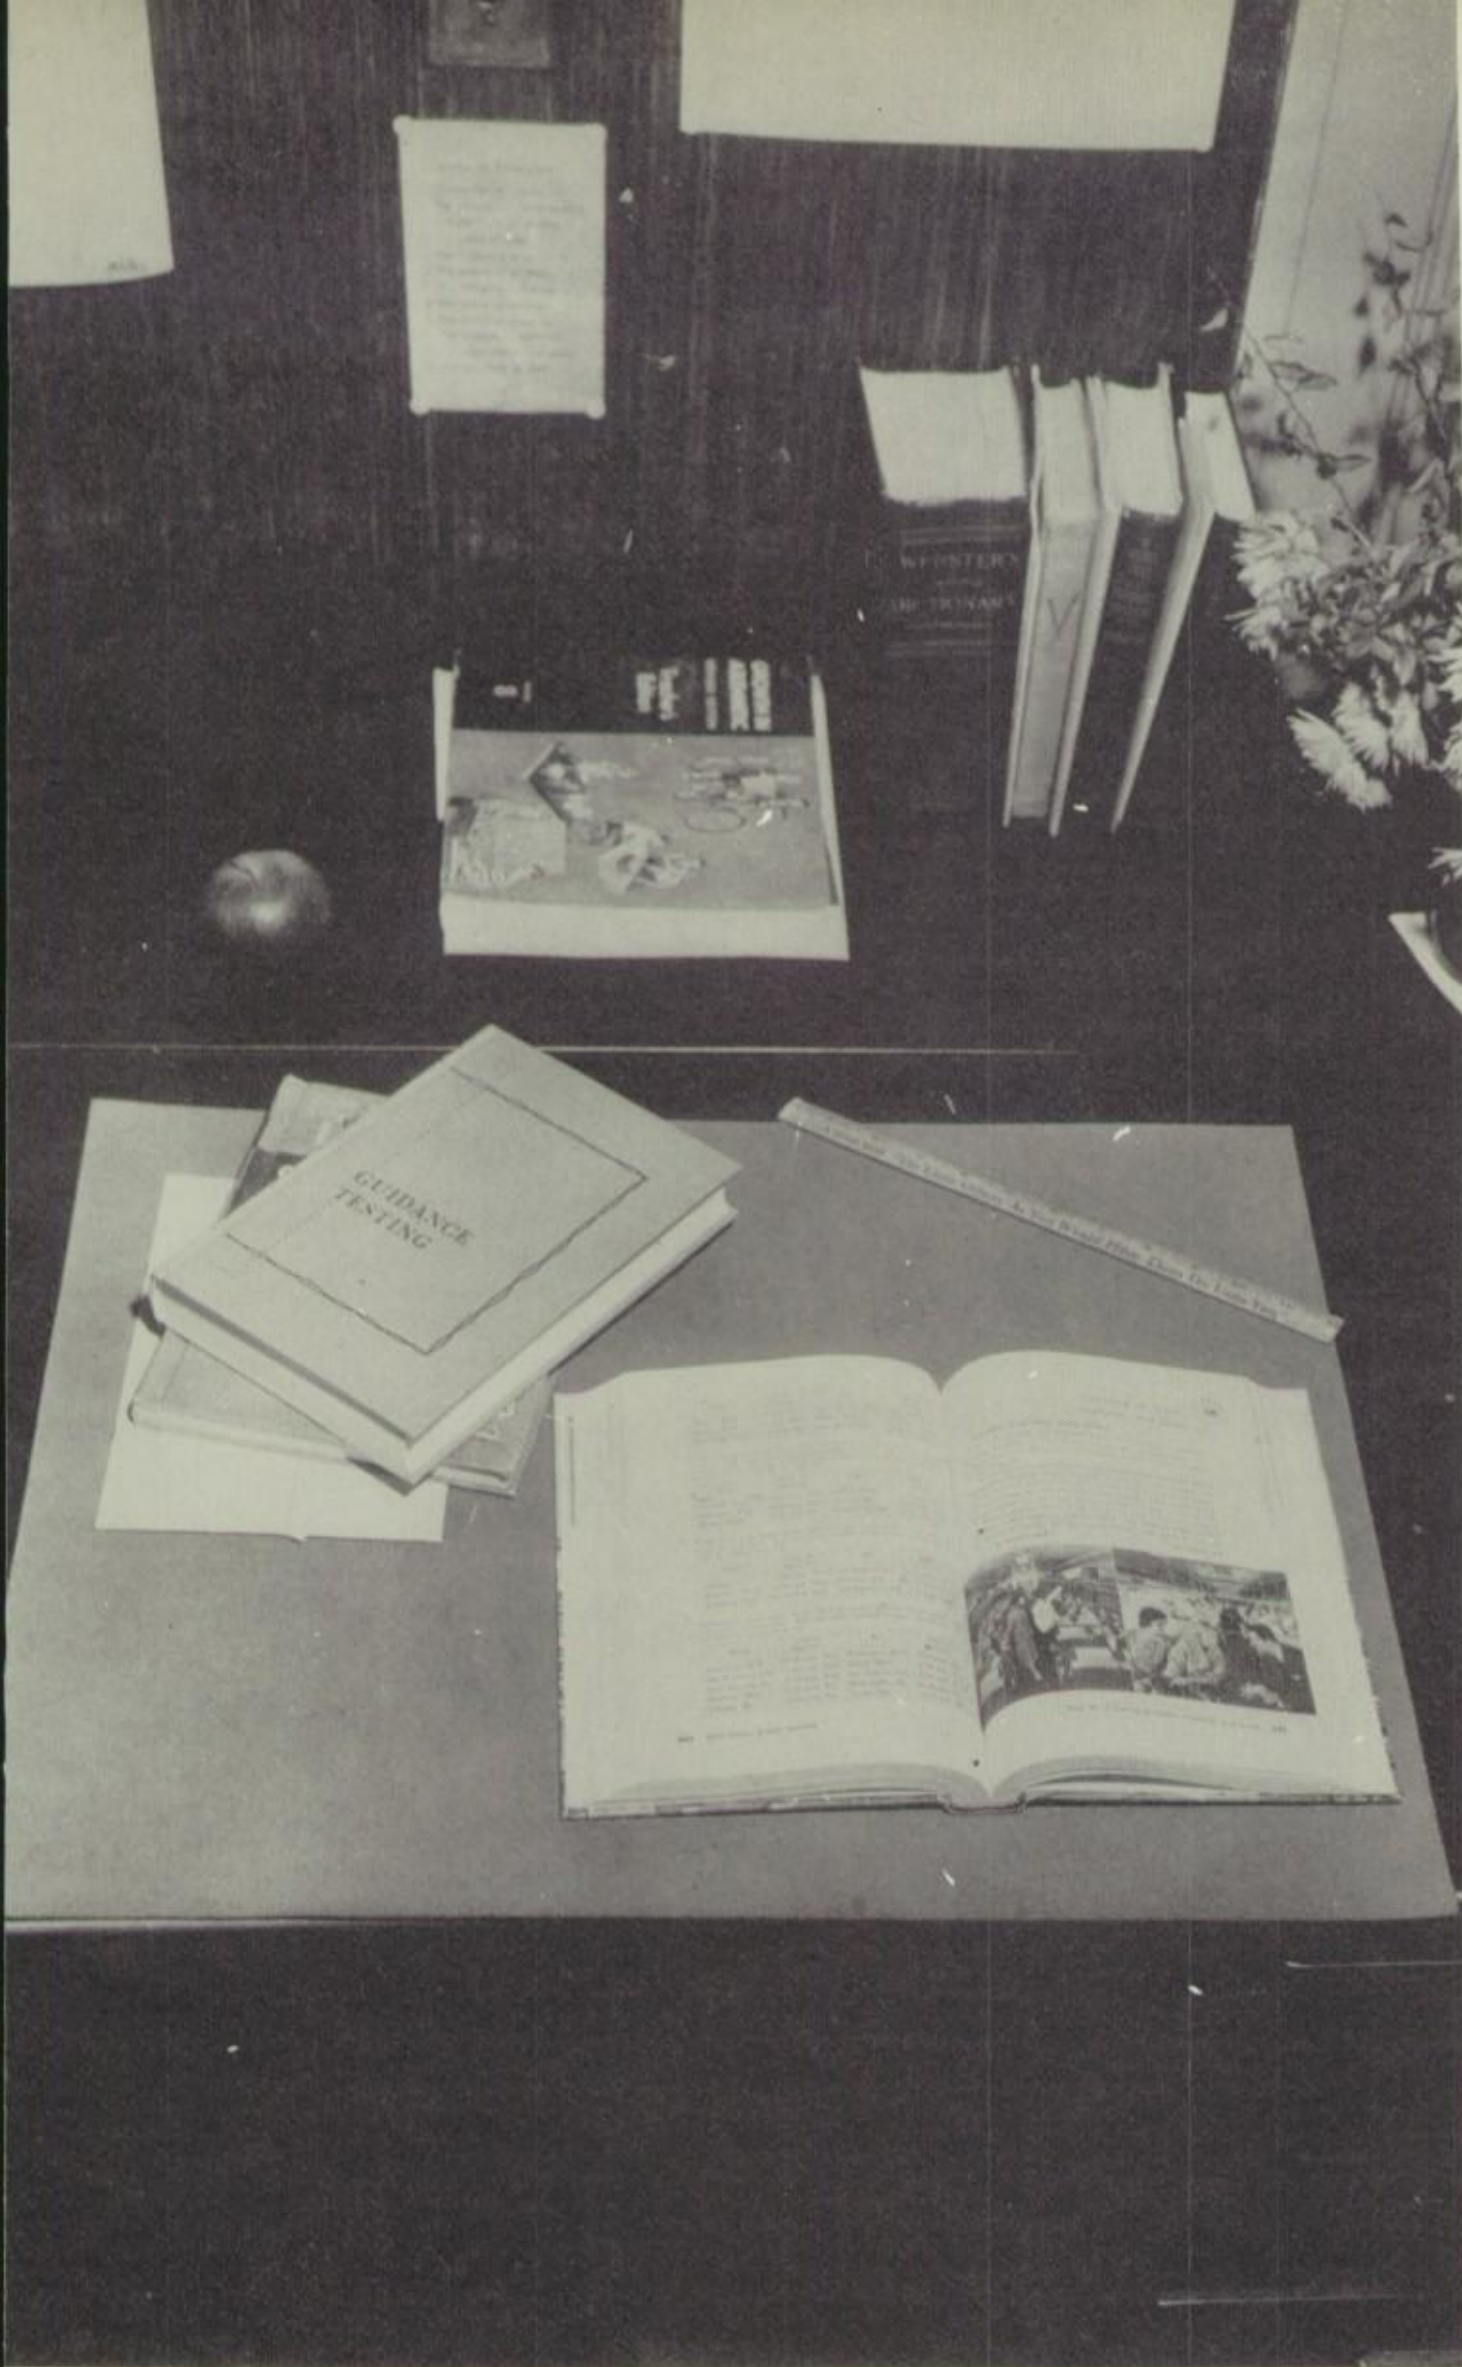

For: his help and encouragement

For: being ready to listen and to assist us

For: being our faithful assistant principal

Here is Mr. Beasley's fine, active family - Mrs. Beasley, Bryan, Bobby, and Bruce (obviously a veteran of some battle). Bruce seems to be more interested in his doggie than posing for his picture.

Administration

Our Leaders

MR. H. R. ELMORE, superintendent of county schools for the past seventeen years, took over his duties as assistant state superintendent of public instruction on December 1.

MR. CHARLES HAGBERG officially assumed the duties on December 1 as superintendent of Pittsylvania County Schools.

To Mr. Elmore and Mr. Hagberg we express our appreciation for their labor and their guidance.

Guidance Department

Assists

Today guidance is concerned with the individual as a child, a youth, and an adult who is developing interests and abilities, setting goals and plans, meeting personal and social problems. The chief purpose of a counselor is to give the individual whatever help he needs at any point in this development. Such is the job of Miss Mattie Hodnett and Mr. George Beasley. They, with the assistance of several faculty members, administered the SCAT and STEP Tests this fall as a part of the state testing program. Plans for a student's future are discussed with them in an effort to help each individual be better prepared in the years to come.

The managers, Judy Woodson and Naomi Francisco, carry the paraphernalia, administer first aid, fan the girls when they get too hot, and do any odd job, as they help push the girls to victory.

The coach, Mrs. Irene Guthrie, having led previous teams to state Championship victories, renovates the Kittens as they shine brighter than ever.

The Kittens, with firm determination, begin the 1960-61 season with only one first string player returning. Led by a highly successful coach and inspired by the school's loyal support, the Kittens hope to have their most successful season in recent years.

"Will it make it?" flashes through everyone's mind as this shot is taken during a tense moment of the game.

Highlights

Hard Work and Late Hours

Several nights a week during the months of December and January typewriters clicked while creative minds concentrated on writing copy and drawing layouts as the Archway Staff strived to meet the deadline. Taking pictures, identifying them, finding lost pictures, and planning the "Dummy" were but a few of the tedious tasks which faced the staff. Nevertheless, with the encouragement of Mrs. Milam, the last pages were finally sent to press January 13, 1961.

Mrs. Milam, sponsor, Jane Mylum, editor, and Russell Price, co-editor, are making plans for the 1960-61 Archway.

Various managers of the staff are Linda Gibson, Pete Ford, Melody Saunders, Lucy Marshall, Judy Burnett, Phil Williams, and Marie Henderson.

Assistants to the managers are H. Mitchell, J. Martin, P. Hill, L. Farthing, R. Woodson, C. Gardner, B. Adams, J. Slayton, J. Spradlin, J. Dellis, K. Oakes, B. Franklin, L. Owens, and D. Gunnell.

Typists - Ruth Kuykendall, Ann Weatherford, and Edith Lewis - are a valuable part of the Archway Staff.

To Be Ready January 13, 1961

Dramatics Fill Need

The Senior presentation of "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come" was a smashing success.

The entire cast, sponsors, and behind-the-scene workers are a happy group because of the large profit from the play.

Gifts of appreciation from the cast were presented to the sponsors, Mrs. Milam and Mr. Fuller, by Jimmy Dellis, senior class president.

With the artistic help of the make-up committee even the whitest can be made black.

The most hilarious character was not even given a part in the play.

"Marry me, Sal, and I'll let you beat me up every day and twice on Sundays", was Zane Owen's plea to Nancy Johnson, "Our Gal Sal," the title of the Junior play.

"I'd marry him tomorrow if he asked me to", was the attitude of Susan Williams as she realistically portrayed the character of Allison Vandyne, who was in love with a policeman, Sammy Saunders.

Deanie Marshall as Daisy wants to know, "How soon kin we get hitched Glenney, dear?"

Make-up plays an important part in the portrayal of character.

Mr. Shelton, with the assistance of his wife Alice, directed the play with patience and determination.

For Expression

Each year the National Broadcasting Company sponsors the Voice of Democracy contest. In order to enter a student must write a speech according to qualifications set up by the judges. There are five areas which may be entered; school, area, district, state, and national. This year Linda Gibson was the winner from Dan River and the area, winning out over sixty other students. She was awarded a certificate of recognition, a radio from W.D.V.A., and a $25 savings bond from the V.F.W.

Men Are Polished Through Act

An important part of the Forensics is the contest play. Here Lucy Marshall, Ann Cardwell, Mrs. Myers, Linda Gibson, and Russell Price are trying to select the play for this year.

Those competing for the prose reader are Dale Gunnell, Russell Price, Lucy Marshall, and Susan Williams.

Kitty Hahn, Patsy Farmer, and Linda Gibson are searching for material for the poetry contest.

And Speech, Each By Each

The Forensic Events were organized with the intent of training speakers for tomorrow. Participants have learned to confine themselves to a time limit; to gather material from many sources and condense it in an intelligent manner; and to cooperate with others. Dan River Forensics include Prose, Poetry, Debate, Public-Speaking, Play, and Spelling. Bill Eastwood, Zane Owen, Frankie Hudgins, and Pete Ford have already begun gathering material for debate.

P.T.A. Sponsors Fall Festival

Each year the P.T.A. sponsors the fall carnival in which all have fun; and money is made for equipment for the school.

King and Queen are Kathy Motley and Frank Abbott. Prince and Princess are Joyce Dodson and Charles Milam.

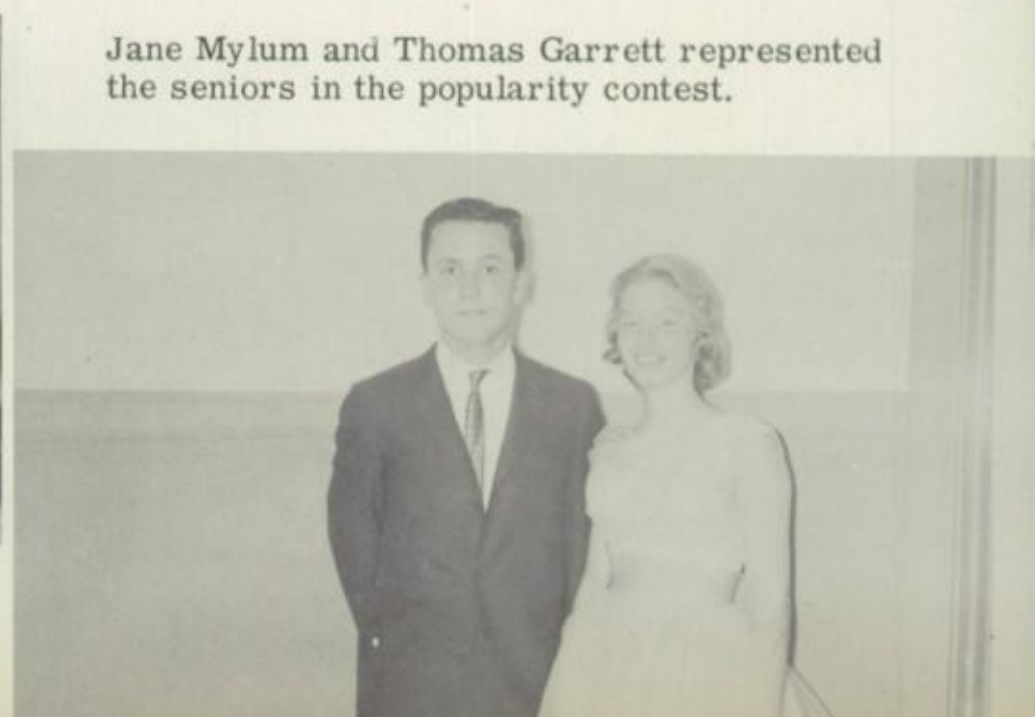

The wheel of fortune gave hope to many while some were disappointed.

Hats, horns, and other novelties were sold to the young in heart.

Parents sold hotdogs to many starving customers.

Jane Mylum and Thomas Garrett represented the seniors in the popularity contest.

Juniors and Seniors Enjoy

On May 27, 1960, the Juniors were host to the Seniors for the Junior-Senior Banquet and Prom at the Country Club. Linda Owens and Allen Yeatts were chosen King and Queen of the event by popular vote and were presented small tokens of remembrance.

"An Evening In Hawaii"

"An Evening in Hawaii", the theme for the evening, was carried out in table centerpieces, decorations, and entertainment. The favors for the boys were Hawaiian leis and for the girls, orchid corsages.

Members of the Junior class put forth much time and effort in planning an enjoyable evening for all.

On those cold Monday mornings what do we hear but the clank, clank of Mr. Woodson's fixing the radiator pipes which we are all huddled around.

His pet peeves are broken doorknobs, burst radiator valves, and all those paper cups on the floor after ballgames. Although we try his patience, he always comes to our rescue.

*We Salute you...
